

The functions of the Account Manager are twofold. It enables the creation of new accounts. First checking if the email has been used already, and then appending the new information into a file if it is acceptable. Second it holds the information of the account to be retrieved by different classes, if needed.

